

you spent on San Antonio. Like I say now, your mother-in-law and Mr. Wah-hre-she--did they speak any English?)

No, they didn't.

(Well, how did they get along with the people? Did they--?)

Well, they had your dad with them. He done more interpreting. Then, I don't remember other interpreter with them.

(But just like you spent Christmas down at this hotel. Did you do any shopping down there?)

I don't remember that. I don't guess--I don't think we went out of the buildin'. We don't do something like we do today.

EXPENSES FOR THE TRIP - PEOPLE IN THE PARTY

(This--on this trip that you took down there, I understand that these people some of your in-laws, uh, when you went anywhere with them were they good people to go with?)

Yes, they were very nice to be with. They do everything pleasant for us.

(Do you remember--apparently, this trip, cost a little money. Did you remember--how did you go about your finances at that time?)

Well, course I didn't have anything to do with that. I think Mr. Wah-hre-she financed all the--all the trip.

(All the trip. He just took enough money to last the whole trip. I don't know--he musta' took lot of money down there.)

He did. He'd always carried a lot of money with him.

(Wasn't he afraid of being robbed or anything like that?)

No, he didn't seem to think anything about it--being robbed or anything.

He always carried a lot of money with him. And I noticed when we got down there--I-guess we did have money--our own individual because we had to get our money exchanged. And we got a--I noticed my mother-in-law had a handker-
