

you could hear big rocks falling. Here and yonder. you know. Seem like. So it wasn't but a few minutes till her uncle and her brother come by on their horses, you know, and told me about it. Said, "Get your horse and lets get to Peggs." So I just went out and grabbed a horse. We come on up here.

Molly: You come by the house with them?

Yes.

Molly: I didn't know who all come. I know he come. Wanting to know where his mommy was. She was at our house that night.

(Where was your home then, Mrs. Warren?)

Molly: About two miles south.

(Uh-huh.)

Frank: Yeah its just about two miles down the road from where she was born and raised.

Molly: Here's an old farmer. I mean a resident of Cherokee County. He was discovered in the (words not clear) of Tahlequah, Oklahoma. At the Tahlequah (not clear). Resident of the (not clear) . (Not clear) one of our fine residents.

(Yeah he is a resident.)

That's her brother.

SEVERAL EARLY DAY SCHOOLS NAMED

(Was there a school here at Peggs before the storm hit?)

Yes. A big school building up there.

(Yeah.)

Molly: We had two story buildings.

Frank: Yeah, they had a two story building. It was a big town.

Molly: Yeah, there's -- .

Lots of kids went to school there then. Had to build a new school back
