

(Louise, who?)

Baconrind.

(Chief Baconrind's--?)

Daughter.

(What was that other name?)

Rose Chouteau. I think that picture just come apart. That's your dad. I might put it together. (discussing damaged picture that was not included.)

(Who's that fellow on there?)

Let's see. That's Leona I guess.

(Where was that taken?)

Col^oorado Springs.

(Put that together someway.)

These are all resort pictures. They are old pictures. Here's a picture that goes with that wedding I believe (76). It's a picture of old wedding. It was taken--I notice it was customary to let the bride, as soon as she got to the grooms's parents, why she wasn't supposed to walk. So they spread a blanket and she sits in it and that way they carry her in (laughter). I see they are carrying her. And one happened to be myself and my mother-in-law and I don't remember who the other one is.

(Who's wedding was it?)

I think that's Cora's wedding. Jim Maker's. That's your uncle Fred. This was another picture I have is--groups of some men. It looks like the are bringing a peyote meeting. The Caddo's come from south, it looks like and this only one of the Osage in this picture is Mr. Richard White (78). That is Nettie Luttrell--Nettie Luttrell's father. And I don't--I can't recall these others, but two I know one named Lewis I've heard and this other one's nae Enoch (78). The other two I can't recall their name. They are from Caddo.
