

(Yeah, uh-huh)

You know where that new rest home is?

(Yeah)

Well that's New Jay is right on down the road.

EARLY DAY U. S. MARSHAL, BILL CHANEY

(Uh-huh. Yeah I know where that is. Well did they have much trouble in these days with uh--before statehood. You know, outlaws?)

No, I don't think they did.

(Well that's good.)

Uh-huh. Bill he was the U. S. Marshall. Only time I know he use the law on 'em was when the boys would get whiskey and bring it in there.

(Yeah. Get whiskey from Missouri, I guess.)

Yeah.

(Southwest City?)

Southwest City kind of a tough little hole.

(It was?)

Yeah.

(Well)

Some people killed there.

(Hum)

They used to have for long time, used to call it, reunion down there. Have big building down there. Be there for a week, camp out in there. Have big picnics.

(Hum)

Indians tents all over. They just camp up in there.

(That was way back there in those Indian territory days.)

Yeah.
