

a school.

(Well there wasn't many people around.)

(Words not clear) moved from, up here? (Yeah.)

MOST TRADING WAS DONE IN SENECA, MISSOURI

Jenny: Didn't you get your groceries what you'um, out of Seneca, Missouri.

Flint: What?

Jenny: Did they buy what groceries they bought at Seneca? Up here at Seneca wasn't that where your trading was done?

Flint: We had two or three stores here. When we went up there we used the Ferry.

Jenny: Before the new ferry most of these people went to Seneca and got enough for a month.

(Uh-huh)

Jenny: And they came down here about where Mr. Boggs and threw them off right down here at this switch. (meaning mail service)

(Yeah)

Flint: Train wouldn't stop in bad weather. If it was cold weather they turned engines before we got there.

(Hum)

Jenny: And they used to bring mail out over here where you cross the tracks where ----

(Yes ma'am. Did you have a post office here?)

Jenny: Yeah. Did they have a little old post office?

STOCKYARD HANDLED CATTLE AND HOGS - FRISCO RAILROAD

Flint: We had a big stockyard. Load twenty four cars a run.

Jenny: Stockyard right across the track there.

(Yeah.)
