Mrs. Wolf: And Goback--(Conversation inaudible--static) They got a graveyard down there at Goback. I used to, I grewed up with Watt, and Jim and Amos and Annie, that was her girl. But the other boys now uh, I married and they kinda, they grewed up with my brothers. So he died--(Conversation inaudible-- static) You know, Goback's nephew?

(Yeah, Bert Hamilton.)

Mrs. Wolf: Goback had a gun, And we could hear the gun from where we lived. If he knowed when Bert was coming in and if there wasn't nobody there, he'd go out and shoot that gun.

(Uh-huh)

Mrs. Wolf: And if there's somebody there, well he wouldn't shoot that gun.

(Well)

Mrs. Wolf: But when he shot it, Bert would come on in. Bert stayed there with him a lot. Goback kept him hid. So one night, Joe Thornton and some more men, they was going to hunt for him. And Goback had a little cellar. I just wonder if it's still there. On the top, it was just big enough for a man to go down through in there. And he kept his turnips and stuff in there in the winter. And when they got there they went to look in the cellar. He told them no one in there. They just fell way down. (laughter) It was funny.

(I bet it was.)

Lady: Goback was a funny man.
