1. A hairball from the stomach of a buffalo.
2. A buffalo tail, or hair from the tail, with hide, folded over a fan made of feathers from a bird called ^paper. in Kiowa. These were probably the tail feathers of a red-shafted flicker. They were rather short feathers, sharp-pointed, black on the ends, and the main part of the feather was orange and red.
3. Fan used when singing while doctoring. This was also a rattle. It was made of:
  - a. Tips of buffalo hoofs, which made the rattle sound.
  - b. Buffalo hair, plaited.
  - c. Buffalo tail. I think the fan was constructed around this buffalo tail--other items fastened to it.
  - d. Many feathers I could not identify (they looked old).
  - e. A small buckskin sack containing ground red paint.
4. Wad of buffalo hair.
5. A bell.
6. Sweetgrass.
