

be cousins I guess.

(Or half brothers.)

Cousins or half brothers, it's both you know.

(Was that the only one--Jim, Ella had?)

I think there was another one that died.

(Where did Lloyd get that name George? Was that a George Maker?)

There was--Fred's name was George.

(Was it? Oh.)

Your uncle Fred. Name was Fred George.

EARLY DAY METHOD OF INDIAN DOCTORING - INCIDENTS

(Oh, back there, you know, long time ago--when these Indians kinda got sick of some kind. Did they have Indian doctors?)

I guess there was Indian doctors. But you know I don't hardly remember but just what --

(Was told to you.)

What was told to me and what I saw. I guess there was other Indian doctors, like your dad--I mean, my dad. He doctored people.

(Didn't they have any--)

And also my mother doctored people. They both kinda worked together. I know my mother, she used to use them horns. Used to hack people and they'd suck the blood out. She had all kinds--she had a little grip had all kinds a horns and I just wished I had kept that and I believe somebody might a got it. They had yellow horns like that--little bitty ones like that one for temple you know, because they couldn't put a big one up there. But these little ones for temple. You know look like that be dangerous, but they did. I don't remember them being sterilized but I guess they did. And then one of them got no infection or anything. And I see them--I see people hack the back, you know they use great big horns on 'em. I used to just
