

when we re-opened it? He's the one that came up here.)

He was?

(Yeah.)

What kind is this weddin' coat they got over there?

(I--just a plain old wedding coat.)

Red or Black?

(It's red. I don't know where they got it, but I imagine they've got baby boards too. And this--who decorated this board for you?)

I did.

(Oh, you decorated it. Did you make the designs on the things yourself?)

Oh, you mean the bead work?

(No, on the head of the board.)

Oh, the head of the--I had it made.

(You mean, you had it decorated?)

Yes, I had it--

(This guy painted it, you know. It had some--somebody had to know how to paint it though didn't they? They just didn't paint it one color did they?)

No, they got their design in there. They got different colors.

(Who made the design?)

Walter Dale.

(Oh.)

He had different--well you take your design up there and show him how and tell him how you want it and put the colors together, then he puts them nailhead on there too. What you call them? Brass heads? Brass tacks? They put them on there you know. They make real pretty.

(I imagine before we did that--I imagine we did all that ourself. They wasn't that pretty, but we did it ourself.)
