

After a while he come out there, said, "You boys want to get a lot of money?" We said "Who wouldn't want to get a lot of money?" "Well," he said, "We're going to get some money tonight." Said, "You boys help me." He had this mineral rod and he had his Winchester. Well, we plowed on a good time, told him to go up to the house--dad was up at the house. We went up around quitting time. We went in and had supper. After supper, he said, "You boys get your tools to dig with. We'll go out here and dig you up a lot of money." We went out there and he said, "It's right by the side of the grave. That's where it's at right there." He'd go off with that thing and he'd march right back there to it. And so we put in to digging. We got down right on to below the grave I know, and finally I told him, I said "There's ain't no money in here." He said "It's in there with him." He said, "Climb in there and you can get it." Said "It's there with him." "You want me to cover--want us to help you cover this hole up?" I said "I'm done." Said "I ain't going to. My brother he was just like me. He didn't want to mess with that. So we filled the hole up. Well, it dropped on, oh, I guess a month and we noticed that had been dug. Now he come back and dug that up.

(Well.)

Well, and then him and another fella name of Charley Hutchins down--you know where the old Negro Seminary used to be down there?

(Yeah.)

Well, there was a graveyard there you know but I don't--

Mrs. Warren: It's a graveyard again wasn't it?

Him and this Charley Hutchins went down there hunting money and they found money there. And they was to go back at certain time and dig it up. Old Man John was telling me about it. Well, when it come time to go back and dig it up why he went over to see Charley--for 'em to go dig you know, and Charley had left the country. So he thought well, if he's left the country he'd just
