

(Now the register of the Pawpaw church. There was a Pawpaw church, too.

Where was it located?)

Well, that's it up here. This is it up here. Timpson Chapel.

(It was Pawpaw at one time?)

Oh yeah. Is that what it says?

(Say register Pawpaw church.)

Well, that's what it is. I know some members that belong up there.

(One and the same.)

I didn't notice they hadn't marked that out.

(Yeah this shows register beginning 1898. Well, there's not another one, record like that anyway, is there.)

Well, I wouldn't know of one.

May: I had another record book dated before that one; that my mother kept. But when her house burned the book burned too.

(And what was her name, Mrs. Fallin? Before she was married? Do you remember?)

May: Yes. It was Fallin.

(A Fallin?)

May: Yeah. Fallin. Fallin. Her name was Fallin.

Frank: Now her and Jim Fallins' daddy's daddy, Jim Fallin's daddy's daddy was a sister or brother to her.

(Well.)

That's the way we're related. Then she married Pete Hilderbrand, Pete Hilderbrand was (Sentence not clear).

OBSERVES FAMILY ARTIFACTS - PHOTOGRAPHS

(Well, if this sugar bowl could talk it could tell a lot of things. It came on the trail of tears.)