

(Well now they would date way back to the 1860's and 1870's probably, wouldn't they?)

Yeah. 1850.

(Yeah, 1850.)

Yes in the 1850's. There was no numbers on there on the rocks.

(Yeah.)

We never could find any writing of any kind, on the rocks. If it had been in Shawnee--

ATTEMPTS TO TRACE THE ORIGIN OF THE AMERICAN INDIAN

We could have got some Shawnee to come there and interpret it, you know.

(Yeah.)

But there was no names. Nothing on there. Indians first come here we had what you call novice--well we call it novice. That's what we call it. They come down on the Bering Straits. Some of them claim.

(Yeah.)

Some of them claim that they come through--oh, Canada. And claim there was ships running then.

(Yeah.)

At times, but there wasn't. There wasn't no such things as ships then on this continent.

(No, not at that time.)

It was on the seas. But not on the ocean. And I believe that just as sure as I'm sitting here, that when Elijah prayed to not rain for the space of three years and three months. It says all of the water dried up. It don't say part of the water.

(Yeah.)

It says all of the water.

(Yeah all of the water dried up.)
