

I was raised there you might say.

(Yeah.)

I quit in '33, I think.

(Yeah.)

But then this Chilocco was--that was my home. I didn't have no home.

(Well.)

I was raised in an orphan home.. But then I know them when they come over there. And I played football with them.

(Yeah. Where was your original--where were you born?)

Ardmore.

(Ardmore.)

(Not clear).

(Yeah. Uh-huh.)

Well my mother she was there.

(You don't remember much about your home country then.)

Well--

(Or have you been back down there?)

Yeah. After I was married. We went down there and stayed two years.

(Yeah.)

Just follow jobs from there. I decided I'd settle down somewhere for good.

(The time comes--)

Yeah. Follow a job. We went to McCurtain. Like that. And by the time school starts job play out. And I come up here in '40, '44, I guess. And we decided--well the war broke out and the power plant started. And I went over there and went to work. Yeah I guess I stay here.

REMEMBERS HARD TIMES IN EARLY DAYS

(Yeah. Well this is a nice part of the country to live.)

It's good. And not to make a living, but nice to live here.
