

I think they all come in pretty well together.

(They did.)

I think they did. They came from Kansas. Some come here, some wound up over there.

(Chief Charley BlueJacket, I know he settled over in there.)

I've heard of him. I know the one boy he was over at Coffeenville.

(Yeah.)

I never did know what become of him. I guess he might could be still over there.

(Could be.)

Little town they call Blue Jacket.

(There were different groups of Delawares that came down here.)

Yeah, there was. Four different directions.

(Yeah.)

They settled here and there. There was one bunch, I think they left Kansas after our bunch did, our bunch. They went on into Texas.

(Well.)

Then they come on up into Oklahoma, down around Anadarko. There what you call the absentee Delawares. Now there down in that direction. Then there were some wound up over around Ketchum over in around Grand Lake.

(That's right, there were some.)

Now them people name of Ketchem.

(Paul Ketchum, the leader.)

There was a whole bunch of them over there. There was only, well, one bunch left down here. Leader, they call it, Fish. His name was Wesley.

And there was Charley that lived there. He's down in Claremore now. But

I met Charley, oh he's, it's been quite a little while. Charley's down
