

I don't think they even bring up the mail anymore. I don't think anything there now.

(Probably not.)

Graveyards still there. 'Course they all done away with.

(Oh yes, all those old things are gone now.)

New town will build up, everything, but its (not clear) Lawrence. I believe that's Kaw river there. Some call it a Kansas river, Kaw river.

(Well, how did those people travel down from Kansas down into Indian territory in those days?)

I think a wagon.

(Just a wagon.)

Yeah, a wagon, they go by fours, bunches coming down here.

(Well, that was a hard trip.)

Yeah, it was. They could go maybe 15 or 20 miles a day. Then stay two or three days when they'd rest up. Then they'd get started and move again.

(Boy, people couldn't do that now, could they?)

Oh, why, they couldn't start. I could go to Lawrence, but I never was there alone (words not clear).

ATTENDED SCHOOL AT HASKELL INSTITUTE

My brothers was there. They were going to school around '25.

(Your brother went to Haskell Institute.)

Yeah. Two of them.

(Well.)

Bill and George.

(Yeah. Well, did you go up there at one time?)

Yeah. I went there, but I went there in 1917.

(Oh, way before.)
