

you to know, everyone of you, that this to you especially, at this time a demonstration to your respectful leader is fully, fully appreciated and if I can ever assist you in any way (not clear) I'd be happy to do so. I want all of you to know that I think this is a wonderful thing. It has taken a great deal of back breaking work and headaches to do this. 'Cause it takes a lot to carry on a thing like they carried on here today so spendidly. And I want you to know I really do appreciate it. And I want you to know that I appreciate that my mother could be here today. I wish she would stand because I don't think some of you ever saw her. Is she back there yet? She weighs about seventy pounds and some of you met her. But she (not clear) on her feet. She doesn't walk too fast anymore or too far. But I'm certainly happy she's here today with us. Now I want you to know that I think that God's been good to me. 'Cause of all the big families we've had there's only one that's broken the circle and that was our father, a man who could teach the Indian child what was right. Indeed he was the great principle of what I think is right and I still thank God today when I walk out across my little farm. And I take my hat off and say "God I thank you." "Because you made it possible for me to have a father who taught me what was right." Indeed, he was principle to Christianity, the right of which I think I will never depart. My friends, I want to say again that I thank you, appreciate you very, very much because you've appreciated me. And I want to continue to merit that appreciation. And I want to simply invite your cooperation and wher ever you may be let me know. And wher ever I can be of service I'm a cheerful man. Thank you very much. (Applause)

Second Speaker: Thank you very much. I want you to know that I've been down (not clear). And we've had some very good inter-tribal countil (not clear). We understand the Choctaws, and the Creeks. We've stood side by side now for a long time, Chickasaws. (Not clear)--we've been able to accomplish. Chief
