

or four days and an old lady by the name of Grandma Snail.

(Well.)

Used to come there and we'd all camp, you know. We'd have dinner kept a big log heap a going.

(Well)

They had good times.

(Why you bet they did.)

NEIGHBORS IN EARLY DAYS

(Well, there was a lot of Indian folks around here at that time, though, I guess?)

Yeah, they're just about all gone.

(They surely are.)

Right in here now. Down about Jay there's lot of them.

(No, you don't find many around here. The Fields and the Sanders there's still some of them left back over there.)

There just ain't many right around close to here. You have to get way out on the prairie and they not much Indian.

(Yeah)

Such a little they can't talk to you. I like to talk Cherokee when I run across someone that will talk it. Lived back here his name was Jack Bucket, he was Jim Bucket's son. He was related to me. And he could talk. And Bucket's folks could talk and Miss Hummingbird lived up here.

(Yes ma'am)

Master lived up there. And Cheaters lived right over yonder.

COMPARES EARLY DAYS WITH PRESENT TIME

Well, they was all Indians. Well, when we'd get together we'd talk. And all Indians all had good time too. And they laugh and enjoy it. Now you can't find nobody.

(No people are scattered now and--)

Which one I don't know they just don't seem like they got the love of the
