

(Yes ma'am.) Has the weather changed since you were a young girl?)

Well, I don't think it snows as much as it used to.

(Used to have big snows here?)

Oh yeah.

WEATHER CONDITIONS SEEM TO HAVE CHANGED SINCE EARLY DAYS

(You know now days if we have a six inch snow well that's a big snow.)

Yeah. Yeah, I knowed it to snow and just bend these little old trees.

You know they used to never have these highways. And they'd bend these trees over the road till you couldn't get by in the wagon.

(Well)

They went by and cleaned them out.

(Well. Well that's what I've heard other people say that the seasons had changed since they were young folks.)

Yeah. Well I've noticed too some time back you can't kill a hog and salt it down until it freezes you know, just wrapped them up. Now cold enough, you know.

(No have to be cold weather for hog killing time.)

HOG KILLING TIME -OTHER FOODS

(Well people don't kill hogs like they used to, do they?)

No. And that's how you don't get no good meat neither.

(No, there's no good meat. Now I can remember--)

Down here where these folks, where Jeff's place is down here, you know.

(Yes ma'am)

And help kill hogs. And I tell you they give us meat to do us for a long time.

(Well. Yeah you could salt that meat or you could smoke it and it'd keep all winter long.)

Oh yeah. Then I^{and} my husband kill about three or four, you know.
