

She's old and she's holding some, she had a picture made and she's holding an old wooden tray in her hands, you know, that's handed down from her, grandmother or something. And she come on the Trail of Tears. Well, you know, if anybody just knowed they was going to be this way they could have kept back something.

(Oh yeah. Well, just like we are today. Lot of things we don't pay much attention to. And we don't write anything down that we should remember and we don't save any papers hardly anymore.

END OF INTERVIEW.
