

(Oh, you have?)

Many tribes are protesting. Take the matter up with our Congressmen and don't let it come on if it's possible. They get every influence person to not get this program on to the public because it's hurting what he done. That's praising him. They said if he needs to be praised, well, the true story should be brought out. This story about his death should be brought out instead of holding it down.

(Well, that's right.)

They said he wasn't a hero enough to be killed by a man, so, he being a coward and a women-killer, and women killed him. That's the way they look at it.

(Well, that's real interesting.)

But I haven't wrote any letter yet, but our people tell me, Comanches tell me, to go ahead and take it up. I'm one of their leaders and they want me to go ahead and protest.

(I've heard that it wasn't a very good program anyway.)

Yeah, if there's anything to be put on, the truth about Custer, put on the way he died. Let the public know how he died instead of like a hero. The way they put his last stand--that's the reason he had his last stand. It was planned that he be taken alive, the reason he had his last stand. It was the plan of the Indians to capture him alive.

(That's really interesting. Well, do you want--shall we go back to this Indian police now and tell me how they started that?)

Well, where did we leave off?
