

this child there?" He said, "No." I said, "Did you ever take your child down there anytime, or any of your family?" He said, "No." And I said, "You didn't even contact them when you taking this child to the doctor, did you?" And he said, "No." "And your bill run up to $180." And I said, "Well, ..." I didn't answer his letter right off, so it wasn't long till he wrote me again. And so in the next letter he said he had contacted Dr. Hudson down there in Tishomingo. And so, the next letter I got, I went down there and talked to Dr. Hudson and he said, "I don't know him and he's never been in here. Don't have no chart on him or anything." So, I guess I - I showed him the letter he wrote, that he had been comin' down here to you. Dr. Hudson said, "No. I don't know him." So I asked the clerk. She didn't know him. No chart on him or on none of the children. So. Dr. and I, we wrote a letter and he signed his name and I signed mine, and told him that we couldn't pay for the bill that he had made with this doctor up there in Sulphur. The $180 was what he wanted us to pay. So I wrote him that letter and in a few days I was goin' through there and I made a visit and told him just what he could do and what he couldn't do. And what he could expect whenever he had an emergency case like that. I said, "Now if you had gone to Dr. Hudson and he had recommended this child to be taken to another doctor, well then the bill would have been taken care of by the Public Health service." But he didn't do it; so there it is. He got the bill on his hands for $180.

(Wonder why he didn't want to go to the clinic?)

Well, he said in one way, after I got to talkin' to him after I had made the visit there, he said he didn't know there was a clinic down there.

I said, "I've told everybody - every family I've visited in Murray county that we had a clinic down there. That you could go down there and see the
