

doctor and get your medicine and not cost you anything. He said, "Well, I didn't know anything about it." And I said, "Well, I thought I told you." But he just felt like he was to go to the doctor just anytime without getting consent from the unit director and get by with it.

(He probably heard that this guy - this doctor was real good in doctoring asthma that's why he wanted to go to him.)

Yeah. That's right.

(But he's sort of stuck with his own bill now...)

Yeah. He has to pay his own bill now. I told him that he had to, so I think he finally made up his mind that he had to.

(Well, Mr. Ned, I sure appreciate your giving me this interview today. I enjoyed talkin' to you again, listening to you talk, telling some of your stories. Is there anything you would like to add that we haven't discussed that...)

I think I went over just a little bit of everything as far as I know. Not anything I can think of right now at the present time.

(Well, I sure thank you and perhaps sometime later on I can come back and you can tell me more Indian stories.)
