

pump the water up to the building.)

Yeah. There was colored man peddled water.

(Colored man, he peddled the water?)

Yeah.

(Well.)

He would sell the water for ten cents a barrel. He was old Jack Luther.

I can remember him.

(What was his name?)

Jack Luther.

(I used to know a lot of people in Tahlequah. Well, I lived there quite awhile myself. Went to school there. Who was the one called Stick Ross?)

He was an old dorky. He lived down by Park hill.

(Oh)

Lived on the mountain. They call it Stick Ross Mountain yet.

(Yeah, there's bunch of hounds that run cross there yet.)

Yeah, he had a bunch of hounds. Boy howdy; he'd come up across there.

Along came (not clear) he said. I bet he had fifteen or twenty of them.

(laughter)

(Well. They're fixing up that Indian pageant now up at (not clear))

(not clear) the old place where the fair is at even now. The old place is over there west of it. Over there on the other side of the creek. Now is that the Spring Creek that comes along there?)

Yeah, Double Spring.

(Double Springs creek. And they moved it up on the hill there across the creek. I wonder who had the first store in there?)

Well, I far as I can remember; Chaney and Parker. Then a fellow by the name of Hill.
