

They didn't cut their hay last year. No, I just sometime I just want to get up and get going. But don't know how to go.

(Yes I guess its quite a problem sometimes. But then you get to thinking in spite of all these things there's still a lot that we have to be thankful for.)

Yes, but--I don't know. I've had so much bad in my life. All my family--

(Uh-huh)

Course I had somebody to depend on then, and lean on. But now I don't have anybody. All my nieces and nephews are out of state.

(But you do have neighbors here and that means a whole lot.)

Oh lord yes. One of them called me yesterday morning. This getting kind of personal. She called me. I hadn't gotten up. I can't sleep at night. I always up and down. Stand around. So I sleep late in the morning. I heard the telephone ring. And I didn't get up and answer it. It thought, "Oh they'll call back" Long distance will always call you back. I thought this early in the morning if they wanted to call me they would call me back. So she got all worried. So she called the neighbor. My neighbor teaches school, Mr.. Callahan, and wanted to know if I was at home. And he said as far as he knew I was. Well, finally, she called me back. And says, "Can you come to town today?" I said, "Oh I guess so." "Why?" She says, "I want to see you. I can't come out there. I want to see you." I says, "Okay." So she sent her son. And they took me in there. And what did she do. She gave me one of the best permanents she had in that shop. She gave me hot oil. She gave me everything to go with it.

(Well)

And I said now I shouldn't, didn't want to accept anything like that. So I said, "Let me pay for this." Said, "No sir, I've giving this for mother
