Vann's, Cherokee Nation
June 13, 1834.

Sir;

On my arrival here this evening I learned from Mr. Vann that you expressed some anxiety to see me, & communicate some information, calculated to aid me in discharging the duty that has been committed to my relation to the sale of the Creek reservations. Being anxious to collect all the information which may be useful before I visit that country, tending to enable me to act efficiently, I take the liberty of asking you to solicit the favor of a communication to me at Calhoun Tennessee, as soon as practicable after this reaches you. I should have been very glad to conside with you at Petit's when I passed you on Sunday the 8th Inst., but I could not know that you possessed the information which I have reason to believe you do.

Sufficient time, however, will intervene between this and the period when I shall be able to get through Cherokee business off my hands, for your letter to reach me, should you conclude, for the public good, to address me one. Any aid you may have it in your power to render me, shall be made to redound, as far as possible, to the advancement of the public interest, and will be thankfully acknowledged by Sir,

Your obt. Sert.

R. J. Meigs.
