Indian-Pioneer History, S-149.

Dear Miss Cosgrove:

Your inquiry regarding "Cold Springs" received, I am sorry that I did not make myself quite clear. "Coal Springs" is an error. The "Cold Springs" community is about 4 miles almost due west of the Goodland Orphanage, Academy, or whatever one chooses to call it, and I believe that either title is proper. After a post office was established at the cold spring, it was named Gay. The post office was abolished several years ago. The postmaster here did not know when it was established or abolished. The post office at Goodland serves that community with mail now. And the present Goodland post office is located right adjoining the Goodland Academy grounds, a half mile east and a mile south of the original Goodland post office, which was in the home of the Reverend Silas Bacon. Then, when the railroad was built through here, the post office was moved to the Goodland station, about 3 miles north of the present town of Hugo, and has been in the present building about ten years.

Cordially,
(Mrs.) Hazel B. Greene.
