Location of Indian Churches
by Jefferson Berryhill.

There are many churches of different denominations. It is important that I should make a report on them because the Indian churches are being abandoned or deserted not just because of losing faith but because of the vanishing of the older Indians who had been the backbone of the church. There are some that have ceased to be the meeting place of the Indians because those fullbloods are dead. Little Cussetah, a Baptist Church two and a half miles west and a mile south of Preston, Oklahoma, is now deserted because the people who lived there are all dead. Tallahassee Church, a Methodist Church, has also been deserted for the same reason. Rock Creek Church, a Methodist Church located one mile and a half mile south of Sapulpa, Oklahoma has only a few members. Creek Chapel, a Methodist Church one and a half miles west of Clearview, has many members. Concharty Church, a Methodist Church about twenty miles northeast of Okmulgee, has many members. Spring Town, about nine miles east of Coweta, has a few members; it is also a Methodist Church. New Town Church is a Methodist Church located one mile north, one mile west, and a half a mile north of Okmulgee. Big Cussetah is a Methodist Church located three miles east and five miles south of Okmulgee. Honey Creek, a Methodist Church, is located eight and a half miles southwest of Okmulgee, on Route 3. Montezuma is located west of Tuskegee, Pickett Chapel is located seven miles south of Sapulpa. Tulsa Canadian, which was located south of Hitchita, was destroyed by fire. Here are some of the Indians churches that I have not been able to locate: Arbeka Church, Hickory Ground Church, Hopohocco Church, Green Leaf Church, Haikey Chapel, Eufaula Church, Little Coweta is located about three miles north of Sapulpa.

The Indian Schools.

There are quite a number of Indian schools today. Some of the old Indian missions have been abandoned, but some are still in use. Nuyaka Mission or Nuyaka Boarding School ceased to be a boarding school in 1923. It is located fourteen miles west of Okmulgee. Another Indian school known as Euchee Boarding School is located on the east edge of Sapulpa. When the Nuyaka Boarding School was closed the students of that school were transferred to Euchee Boarding School, which is still in use and retains its same name. Eufaula Boarding School for girls located in the edge of Eufaula. Chilocco Indian School is located in the northwest part of Oklahoma near the Kansas line.

Haskell Institute is at Lawrence, Kansas.

It is a big school and all kinds of Indian tribes go there. River Side, California, is another Indian School. Sequoyah Training School, located near Tahlequah, Oklahoma, is an Indian school mostly for Cherokees although many Creek Indians go to school there.

Mekusukey, an Indian school near Wewoka, Oklahoma, was destroyed by fire but now it is expected to be rebuilt again. An old Indian school of Wealaka has been abandoned. Another one at Carlisle, Pennsylvania was also abandoned.
