

JOHNSTON COUNTY DEMOCRAT

Tishomingo, Johnston County, Oklahoma

April 17, 1908

Vol. 5, No. 25

Q. D. Gibbs, Editor

WITH APOLOGIES TO FUS FIXICO

"Well, so," Hot Gun he say, as near's I could come at it, a county seat was a sort of busk groun'; an' it takes lot o' natural advantages, like plenty o' scruboak shade and fine pickin for the grass fillies an' a strong flow o' water to make a good one. So a place that didn't had these blessin's o' the Great Spirit was already defeated for the county seat.

Then, Tokpafka Micco he say, "Well so, 'cording to that argument Ravia din'dt had noshow to experience real estate boom." (Wolf Warrior an' Keno Harjo give big grunt).

An' Hot Gun he look 'way off down the creek where wild onions was growin' an' go on an' say, "Well, so I concede Ravia was had some pickin' for the grass filly, but its flow o' water was weak an' uncertain an' scruboak shade was scarce in its vicinity. It was had an abundance of high winds an' horisontal zephyrs an' distant prospects but things like that wasn't solid advantages."